Collibra Privacy & Risk
Take a proactive approach to data privacy

More data is available today than ever before, and organizations recognize that data is a strategic asset and are working towards transforming their businesses to be more data-driven. Yet as the amount of available data grows, so does the burden for organizations to care for and safeguard customer data, and each regulation may have nuanced differences and require distinct approaches. As organizations look to extract more value from data and embark on the Data Intelligence journey, they must future-proof investments by building a strategic and scalable approach to data privacy that meets the needs of regulators and consumers both today and in the future.

Collibra Privacy & Risk delivers an enterprise-grade platform that enables compliance and minimizes privacy-related risks. This empowers organizations to focus on unlocking the value of their data and growing the business rather than adhering to policies. With Collibra Privacy & Risk, organizations can implement a scalable approach to compliance by documenting, governing, and collaborating around privacy policies in a centralized location ensuring that they are effectively managed across the enterprise.
