

COLLIBRA STEWARDSHIP

Protect, share, and improve your data assets

Data is pointless unless it's used. Every organization gets that. But putting the right data into the hands of the right people in a safe and secure way isn't always as easy it should be. Sometimes, the controls just aren't there, and sensitive data is shared when it shouldn't be. Sometimes the controls are so rigid that making innovative use of data is almost impossible. And too often, the people who really understand what the data means aren't able to share their knowledge with others across the enterprise.

Collibra Stewardship delivers out-of-the-box data workflows that help you curate your data more effectively. By engaging stakeholders across your organization, you can work collaboratively to establish data rules that make sense and automate processes to keep your data safe. Collibra Stewardship helps you easily communicate who owns what data, when data can be accessed, and how data can be used. By giving data stewards the tools they need to organize, share, and improve their data, organizations can be sure that data assets are delivering real value.
